Kester Freeman, Executive Director of the Institute of Medicine and Public Health (IMPH) and Co-chair, welcomed the Taskforce to the January 17 Workforce for Health meeting and reminded members to mark their calendars for the upcoming February 21 Taskforce meeting. Maya Pack, Associate Executive Director of IMPH, then discussed the format for the day. Taskforce members broke up into three groups and three facilitators and note takers rotated between the groups to collect feedback on the draft recommendations.

Following the rotations everyone returned to the main group and reviewed common themes from their editing sessions. Each group made substantive suggestions for additions to, and improvements on, the recommendations and potential champions. Many of the suggested edits added specificity to the recommendations. Dick Wilkerson, Co-chair, closed the meeting by reminding attendees to respond to the open comment period and to mark their calendars for the last Workforce for Health Taskforce meeting on February 21.
