Health in All Policies Cont.

The Five Key Elements of Health in All Policies:

1. Promote health, appropriate access, and sustainability.
2. Support intersectoral collaboration.
3. Benefit multiple partners.
4. Engage stakeholders. Health in All Policies engages a variety of stakeholders, such as community members, policy experts, advocates, members of the private sector, and funders.
5. Create structural or procedural change.

HEALTH POLICY FELLOWS

What Can Counties Do?

- County Council Representatives are responsible for making policies and budgets that cultivate a healthy community.
- County Administrators and additional county staff are responsible for carrying out the policies and financial decisions made by the County Council. County Administrators also oversee the day-to-day operations of the county government.
- Counties may form advisory boards and committees to dive into health issues affecting their residents.
- Boards and committees write policies and regulations to address various issues.
- Policymakers can support local health initiatives by providing financial support to existing or new programs and by implementing policies proven to improve community health.
- Local governments can enforce ordinances that encourage healthy behaviors.
