Graduate Student Opportunity: Health Policy Research & Analysis

The South Carolina Institute of Medicine and Public Health (IMPH) serves as an informed, nonpartisan convener to provide evidence-based information relevant to policy decisions and other actions impacting the health and well-being of all South Carolinians. Our mission is to collectively inform policy to improve health and health care.

IMPH is seeking a graduate student to work part-time as a member of our team for the role of Health Policy Research & Analysis Graduate Assistant. This opportunity will range from 10-20 hours per week in an on-site office environment. Availability preferred Tuesday-Thursday. The ideal start date would be August 2025. Compensation for this role is $15/hr.

Potential Area of Study:

Health Services and Policy Management, Public Policy, English

Job Purpose:

In this role, the Graduate Assistant will work closely with members of the IMPH team to research, design, and execute our upcoming taskforce (length of time in role will dictate the work needed). This position is designed for graduate students interested in public health and health policy. The Graduate Assistant will gain experience in writing, editing, research, policy analysis, and taskforce design.

Role Responsibilities:

- Conduct research and gather information to support the development of our upcoming taskforce, reports, and/or other materials to inform policy on health and health care issues
- Support the planning and implementation of our upcoming taskforce
- Attend meetings and webinars and take thorough notes to distribute to the team
- Other duties as assigned
